

The TRF™ System was developed by FXI to rank temperature regulation in foam products

Temperature regulation is a combination of airflow, heat and moisture dissipation

Open cell foam providing a high level of airflow for good temperature management

Open cell foam providing a high level of airflow plus heat dissipation properties for improved temperature regulation.

Extreme open cell foam providing the highest level of airflow, plus heat and moisture dissipation for the best temperature regulation.

